RSPCA says THANK YOU

The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (RSPCA) have written a thank you letter to us for the monies raised by our Reception children who dressed up as the Golden Rules animals back in October. The monies raised will go towards supporting the fantastic work that the RSPCA do, for example:

- Keeping 400 inspectors and animal welfare officers employed to help animals every day of the year
- Find loving homes for over 60,000 distressed animals each year
- Rescue and rehabilitate any wild animals that have been injured or impacted by pollution, careless driving or littering

Topic Homework

We would like to thank everyone involved with the creation of the many marvellous homework projects that were brought in this week. It was great to see that the children were able to share their enjoyment of the topics they covered in school with their families. These fantastic pieces of work are now displayed around the school for everyone to admire.
